The season is changing, leaves are growing on trees and blossoms are sprouting forth. The weather is changing, and different cloud formations are forming and riding in the skies.

You too are changing. As your experience grows you are slowly becoming more yourself. A beautiful change comes upon you just as the seasons change in their own unique beautiful way. You can never again be as you once were, and this is a good thing. You are now able to experience and comprehend more than ever before.

And for the things you are yet to see, your inner self is preparing the way. Your light will grow in strength and you will see this reflected back to you in the light of others.

These are wonderful times, the new budding of self.

Embrace and relax into these moments. Take a moment to breathe it in to your entire Being and rejoice in the stillness you find inside.

Be Undismayed

Work with the light as always, knowing that when you send out the light you are helping to awaken and quicken the light in all beings. Don't look down or back, neither be dismayed by unworthy little things which would trouble and disturb your spirit. Look forward into the light, knowing that God is working a purpose out and all things work together for good for the one who loves God.

Sayings of White Eagle*
